PiPER Quarterly

December 2023 | Issue 3

Updates from PiPER

The Patient Engagement in Research \(PER\) Toolkit is now available under the Our Resources tab on the PiPER website.

The PiPER team has created a summary document of the recent research day. For those who missed it or want to revisit the discussions, recordings of the research day are now accessible here.

Events & Opportunities

The PiPER Community of Practice is hosted virtually on the last Wednesday of the month 12-1 pm. Each session shares knowledge, practices, and resources via presentations and discussions which can be accessed on the PiPER website.

Please email piper@uhn.ca to register for the January, February & March sessions.

Helpful Resources

The Patient Engagement in Research \(PER\) Toolkit is now available, offering valuable resources for patient-centered research involvement. Also, check out the What is Patient Engagement in Research? video on YouTube for more insights into patient engagement in the research process.

Beyond UHN

With patient engagement in research happening inside and outside of UHN, we want you to know about opportunities and resources that are out there. Here is one we hope you find helpful:

- NASCIC Research Advocacy Course: The course is a free online course aiming to enhance knowledge and partnership in spinal cord injury research, targeting individuals with SCI, caregivers, and healthcare professionals.
